

REMEMBER MONTGOMERY AND BIRMINGHAM: BOYCOTT TRUMP NOW!

During the Civil Rights Movement, bus and business boycotts were an effective way of sending a message to local and national leaders. The yearlong Montgomery bus boycott forced the Supreme Court to desegregate public transportation in Alabama. The 1963 Birmingham business district boycott put pressure on store owners to accept black customers. Consumer boycotts were also an integral part of the Anti-Apartheid Movement in South Africa.

You can voice your opposition to Donald Trump's presidency by boycotting the businesses that helped bring him to power. Included below is contact information for each business: let them know that you will no longer purchase their products:
